Feland, F. Kennedy, A. man named J. W. Stanfill from the 9th district of this county. Stanfill's story of the transaction is in substance as follows:

Campbell, L. Feland, F. Kennedy, A. E. Morris, T. Morris, M. M. Mitchell, C. A. Lindsey, I. Lipstine, H. R. Roper, J. Weston, C. W. Templeton. met up with Burgess. In getting off of the train Burgess said: "Well we are here." Stanfill made some assenting here, and the church humber were formed into a company commanded by Col. Crump. They reached Greenwood Saturday hight and went at once into actual service. It is highly we have the part of the country of the part of th remark and they parted. Stanfill replied that Burgess face was familiar to him and Burgess said: "I guess you have seen me if you have ever been about Erin."

Stanfill then thought he remembered Bargess as a young man whom he had met in a store in Erin. They parted but in a short while Burgess again approached Stanfill and proposed a walk around the Court House. While they were taking this walk Burgess asked for the loan of the money. Stanfill declined to make the loan but Burgess arged his request and said he would return it in an hour or so. He produced a paper which he said was good for $500 and which he would collect as soon as some man whom he expected to see here, came to town. On such representation as this stanfill gave him the money.

All this time the police were shadowing Eurgess and the two negroes who were seen with him. Mosby's character for crookedness and the conduct of the trio about town had brought them into notice. They were seen consulting together on the corners and making signs to one another. The Lecture.

Dr. Lyon's lecture on "Frictional Electricity" at the College last Tuesday night, was well attended and very interesting. The atmosphere was moist and for this reason several of his experiments failed. The history of electricity was reviewed from the time that Thales discovered it m the rubbing of amber. He then discussed the theory, that it is a kind of vibrations. and assumed to be a fluid of two kinds, positive and negative, which already exists in the body and which rubbing ser arates. In fact, he said, it can not be defined; how it manifests itself can better be told.

Then was discussed many of its modes of manifestation, in the attraction and conductivity of bodies, in induction, condensers, and the power of Frazier & Ragsdale sold a hogshead of points, fully illustrated by experiments.
